

No. Accountability is crucial for SFUSD, but this punitive one-size-fits-all approach is not the answer for our district.

With proactive oversight, we can ensure that SFUSD and the school board function effectively with full transparency. That's why part of my platform is to bring back the four oversight committees which were dismantled in 2022. We should not wait until circumstances become dire before holding officials accountable.

Instead of mirroring a state with sweeping anti-LGBTQ+ and anti-DEI legislation and whose "Miracle" was widely debunked, we should be focused on investing in the resources that actually improve student outcomes long-term: food security, accessible healthcare, and small class sizes.