Did you support the school board recall in 2022? What's your view on merit-based admissions at Lowell High School?

No, I am generally opposed to recalls because special elections cost our city too much money. We should resolve our political differences during regularly scheduled elections rather than through costly, off-cycle recall campaigns. However, I completely understand the deep frustration that led so many Sunset families to the ballot box in 2022.

Regarding Lowell High School, I fully support maintaining its merit-based admissions policy. Lowell is a crown jewel of our public education system and a vital engine for upward mobility, particularly for the working-class and immigrant families of District 4. Ultimately, I believe that all public high schools in San Francisco should be funded and elevated to world-class standards so that every student has the opportunity to succeed.
